Records, the way they should be sold.

Medium Format is an independent record shop in Jakarta. The name comes from film photography, where the medium format is the larger negative that holds more detail. It also points to what we sell: the LP, the 12-inch, the 7-inch and the CD.

One platform sits behind the shop, the website and the marketplaces, keeping stock, orders and music in sync. The identity matches it: black and white, one typeface, and a single mark drawn from a record seen side-on.

Record shop

Jakarta

Plain, and sure of itself.

The character is in the words we choose and the restraint we keep, not in decoration. Let the records lead.

Plain

Clear words, clean layouts, no clutter. If something can come out, take it out.

Confident

Say things once and mean them. No hype, no exclamation marks doing the work.

Quiet

The records are the interest. The design stays in the background and lets them lead.

Honest

Describe what is real: the pressing, the condition, the price. Nothing dressed up.

One logo, three forms.

Use the form that fits the space. The wordmark is set in Geist SemiBold.

The lockup · the default wherever there is room.

Medium Format®

The wordmark.

The logomark · avatars, icons, stamps.

Two versions. That's all.

White on dark

Black on light

Give it room.

Keep a clear margin around the logo of at least X on every side, where X is the cap height of the wordmark. Nothing sits inside it.

Minimum clear space = X on every side.

Small, but still legible.

Below these sizes the logo stops being clear. When space is tight, use the logomark on its own.

Keep the contrast clear.

Black on light grounds, white on dark ones. Avoid mid-greys that leave the mark half-visible.

Please don't.

The artwork is final. Each of these breaks the logo.

Black on white, white on black.

That contrast is the whole palette. Colour has one job in the product: showing the state of stock and orders. It never appears in the logo or in marketing.

Black

One typeface does it all.

Geist sets everything. Figures that must line up (prices, cat numbers, barcodes) use its tabular numerals.

Talk like the shop.

Clear, friendly and to the point. We work in Indonesian and English, prices in Rupiah first.

DO

- Lead with the record and why it is worth hearing.
- Be specific about the label, year and condition.
- Keep it short. One good line is plenty.

DON'T

- Oversell, or invent scarcity to push a sale.
- Use jargon that shuts newcomers out.

INSTEAD OF

“INSANE restock!! Don’t sleep on this heater, link in bio.”

WE'D SAY

“Back in stock: Khruangbin, Mordechai. A few copies on the wall, come and have a listen.”

Let the records be the colour.

Pictures should feel real and unfussy: records, sleeves, the shop, hands going through a crate. Plain light and honest framing. The cover art brings the colour.

What to shoot

Records and sleeves, the shop and its shelves, the turntable, people listening. Real moments over staged ones.

How it should look

Clean and a little understated. Black and white for the shop; let the sleeves carry the colour.

A simple test: would it sit happily on a record sleeve or a gig poster? If it looks like a tech advert, take it back a step.

Out in the world.

The same parts repeat across the shop, the merchandise and the screen, held together by black, white and the mark.

PHYSICAL

Stickers use the logomark; totes and tees the wordmark.

DIGITAL

Shop, back-office, POS, emails.

From brand to build.

Everything here becomes reusable design tokens, written in the DESIGN.md format so designers and AI tools can apply it directly.

DESIGN.md

Brand-Assets

The logo lockup, wordmark and logomark in black and white.

Keep it plain. Let the records do the talking.
